MetroHealth's 2012 Esperanza Scholarship Recipient is Aspiring Psychologist 6/26/2012

Yazmine Rosario is a recent high school graduate with aspirations of studying psychology. She's on the path to fulfilling her dream, thanks in part to a scholarship sponsored by The MetroHealth System and administered by Esperanza, Inc. (above photo left to right: MetroHealth's Oscar Gumucio; Nanet Lopez-Cordova, PsyD; and Diana Gueits; Yazmine Rosario; and Esperanza, Inc.'s Victor Ruiz and Felicia Soto).

Rosario was honored along with 92 other high school graduates during Esperanza, Inc.'s Fiesta of Hope scholarship and awards luncheon on June 22. They've each received mentoring support and educational guidance through Esperanza, Inc., a nonprofit organization geared toward enhancing educational and economic opportunities for Cleveland-area Hispanic Americans. The students plan to attend four-year, two-year or technical colleges.

Rosario plans to study psychology at Cuyahoga Community College. She says her father is her role model because "he overcame obstacles but never lost sight and is always positive and dedicated."
